The Booth in a Box information certainly gives people food for thought and sparks a lot of conversation among individuals in our small rural community. The information outlines a number of career options that people may not have considered. We will continue to display and promote it, as agriculture is still so much a part of our lives. Thanks for all the great information.

This workshop was very informative. I learned about the positive and negative impacts of climate change on agriculture and food. We discussed greenhouse gases and solutions to a global food crisis. I also learned how the agriculture and food industries are working to reduce the effects of climate change.

It was an excellent learning experience for my students! It was a great way to take a field trip without leaving the classroom. My students were so engaged, and I really appreciated the format of pausing the videos for questions. The students all said they wish it had been a bit longer!
